

WinMaster MobileCom is discontinued

WinMaster MobileCom was successfully introduced in 2004 and has since been installed on many milk cooling tanks. This development was continued in 2013 with the Argos control system. To this day, the Argos controller is still one of the most advanced control systems for milk cooling tanks.

Unfortunately, the development in availability of spare parts for the WinMaster MobileCom control is such that some components are no longer available. A supply of spare parts for the WinMaster MobileCom control device can therefore unfortunately no longer be maintained.

However, with our upgrade kit to Argos alt. Nautilus 2 (item no. 10642040 alt. 10642041), you will get a new control unit with a more advanced technology and at the same time user-friendly.
